

HUSTONVILLE.

—It waved again Tuesday evening after a day of enervating mildness.

—Cook & Weatherford are busy getting their united stocks into shape. They are both our own boys and start with the best wishes of the entire community.

—The condition of John D. Carpenter gives some encouraging indications. Mrs. William Bishop is sick. A little child of E. S. Powell has been suffering for several days.

—Farmers are beginning to bestir themselves. But feed is nearly exhausted, grass is backward, the wheat crop almost an utter failure, while the weather does not keep in position long enough to permit the early gardener to press his favorite folly.

—Fine horses are beginning to claim attention and the melting cadences of the melodious jack are added to swell the symphonies of the expected vernal gladness. And this reminds me that E. S. Powell wishes it distinctly understood that he is still in the ring. He will be prepared to present in the next issue of this paper a bit of blood, Ericson, Jr., by name, closely connected with the very aristocracy of equinity as Maud S., Jay Eye See, &c., and also a jack whose proud lineage can be traced distinctly back to about the days of Balaam. Look out for his "ad" next week.

—It is about time that the zealous school trustee to visit the families of their respective districts and prepare their census report. The blanks have just come to hand and will be distributed without delay. I will attend in Stanford on Monday, April 2d, prepared to supply all who come. I give an extract from the dictum of the State Superintendent, viz: "Accept no census report from any district unless made on one or more of these forms. See that they are properly dated and signed. Instruct the trustees to put no names on the blank side, but properly fill up the printed matter to you promptly." To this I would add: It is the duty of the trustee to retain a copy of his report with names, age and sex of the children of pupil age, in order that he may insert it on the pages of the Teachers' Register, prepared for that purpose. Especially be careful not to go beyond your boundary, and if parties are listed in more than one district report the fact and counter claims at once. If the editor will pardon me for dwelling on a matter which I esteem as of the highest importance, I would kindly insist on better and more earnest work in the coming year than we have had in the past. Our school-houses must be put in better condition. We cannot repeat the farce of pretending to keep up a school without a roof, or floor, or walls, or windows, or seats, or desks, or stove or fuel, or a single comfort or healthful appliance. Health is endangered, pleasure is banished, time is lost, and money is wasted in such a state of things. It has become a necessity to refuse to report a school for the distribution of the fund unless parents and those who ought to feel an interest in the question will take hold and make the fund a benefit. Citizens look at the question rationally; between eleven and twelve thousand dollars came into this county last year for school purposes, and how many interested themselves in the matter? A projected railroad or even a turnpike is a matter of absolute interest, but the training of the immortal mind is too trivial for consideration.

—Woodford county voted a subscription of $50,000 to aid in an extension of the Louisville Southern road through its limits.

—There are now in office in the Department at Washington over 5,000 republican clerks, appointed under republican rule, and many of them by the operation of the vilest political methods. Turn the rascals out.

—Chicago Anarchists celebrated the Commune Sunday night by a meeting. Albert Currier, the editor, worked the assemblage up to a white heat by his utterances: "I am an Anarchist, let them strangle me if they dare," provoked storms of applause. But the valiant knight will hardly do anything to make them strangle him for but work his jaw.

A statistical official has figured out that there are 31 criminals to every 1,000 bachelors and only eleven criminals to every 1,000 married men. "Matrimony," says he, "restrains men from crime, and it ought to be encouraged by legislation and otherwise."

Fritz—Mein Gott, Karl! How you snubbed dot skinny feller get himself outside of de schooner of beer?

Karl—Ach! His skin will like rubber stretch. He vos a prohibitionist.—[The Judge.]

LETTER FROM GEORGE O. BARNES

PENSACOLA, FLORIDA, MARCH 19, 1888.

DEAR INTERIOR—We left Mobile by the 2 p. m. train on the L. & N. route, and ran up the Mobile river about 20 miles before crossing and leaving it to the west. Engineering skill and pluck were needed to run this line down such an unpromising marsh, as lines both sides of this great deep, unornamental stream. At first, wholly on piles, but afterwards filled in, it now has a fine road bed, seldom interfered with by the sullen waters that roll their muddy flood towards the Gulf.

When we quit the river the pine lands begin again, and this time under new conditions, for the resinous treasures are tapped in the forests that line the road; and the curiously shaped bark puncture, familiar to those who reside in turpentine producing regions, is everywhere seen. At intervals, the mills that work the product up, line the railway, conspicuous from afar, with their amazing array of barrels, standing on end, in which the "rosin" is shipped to various markets. The crude turpentine is collected in the most primitive way. A receptacle holding from a quart to a half a gallon is dug into the bottom of the tree, where the spread of the root makes a suitable place; then with a tool adapted to the purpose an incision, varying in length from 6 inches to 2 feet, according to the size of the tree, is made across the face of it. This has a downward peak in the centre of the cup to guide the flow of sap; and when the freshly wounded edge begins to heal, new cuts are made, at intervals of a few days, throughout the season. To keep the wounds bleeding freely is the point of profit. This process, of course, makes a larger gashed space every year; so that a practiced eye can tell how many years a tree has been tapped (or "boxed," as the technical term is) by looking at the height of the bark removal. About a fresh foot is removed yearly. A forest of four or five years' production looks as if every tree had a Crusader's shield blazoned on the side of it. If you had an engraver on you it could be made plain at a glance. But you are not an "illustrated" and I have to write a page, almost, to describe so simple a thing as this.

Well, it is not my fault if your readers have no idea of what sort of a mark the turpentine business puts on a pine tree. The secret of "boxing" lies in getting the utmost yield of resinous fluid consistent with retaining healthy life in the tree. If you are too greedy, you "kill the goose that lays the golden egg." Experts know, by experience, just how much and how broad stripes of untouched bark are to be left, like brown ribbons, to supply the life stream, from earth to the green pinnacles that have tossed off a century's storms, or more, or less. Sometimes trees are slain outright; often weakened to unproductiveness, by injudicious "boxing." When the "shield" gets too high from the ground to reach easily with the scraper, the tapping ceases and the tree is cut down for the saw-mill.

A healthy, average tree yields 6 to 8 gallons of crude turpentine annually. This is distilled exactly as whisky is produced and the outcome is the turpentine of commerce and the residuum of "rosin." When prices are good, there is "big money" in it. When bad, just the reverse. And prices fluctuate very violently, making it a precarious business. A gentleman, who sat by my side, for 40 miles out of Mobile, a large owner of pine forests and mills, both saw and turpentine, gave me the above items. It was all new ground to me. Perhaps this brief account will interest some of the unenlightened of your readers, as did the conversation of my fellow traveler. He gave me a most hospitable invitation to stop with him, if I ever came that way, promising me a pleasant visit and every attention. He was evidently in earnest and not saying something polite but unmeaning.

[This is only a portion of the letter which was received too late to produce entire this issue. We simply give this much to show that Bro. Barnes is still with us—if he has been silent for a moon or two. ED.]

A glass of wine, for instance, changed the history of France for nearly 20 years. Louis Philippe, King of the French, had a son, the Duke of Orleans, and heir to the throne, who always drank only a certain number of glasses of wine, because even one more made him tipsy. On a memorable morning he forgot to count the number of his glasses and took one more than usual. When entering his carriage he stumbled, frightening the horses and causing them to run. In attempting to leap from the carriage his head struck the pavement and he soon died. That glass of wine overthrew the Orleans rule, confiscated their property of $20,000,000 and sent the whole family into exile.—[Chambers' Journal.]

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Wm. Hayward went to Louisville Thursday and James Landram is on duty at the railroad station in his place.

—Judge R. Boyd, having recovered from a week's illness, returned to the Knox circuit court, now in session at Barbourville.

—Dr. J. T. Mutson is having two additional rooms put to his residence, besides other improvements, making a neat and attractive building.

—John Street and Billie Hurst engaged in a little known-down Wednesday night. Street knocked down a considerable quantity of "red liquor" and was in turn knocked down by Hurst.

—G. R. Cockrell, of the Mt. Sterling Land Co., was here Wednesday and completed the purchase of Mr. Joseph Sampson's land in Bell county. Price paid was something over $16,000 for a 800-acre tract.

—The young ladies gave a leap-year party at Mr. A. B. Brown's on Tuesday night. All the young people in town were in attendance. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Brown and all present enjoyed themselves nicely.

—Among the moonshiners that were brought here from Perry and Leslie counties, were Andrew Pennington, Henry Pennington and Leonard Nolan, who waived examination and gave bond and James Vernon, Ben McIntosh and John W. Pace acquitted.

—We know our Main street is in a deplorable condition and equalled only by "Plum" street in Barbourville. But our business men are not going to have much more fun poked at our broad Main street, which can be made a nice avenue, and are talking in real earnest of paving Main street the entire length of town, one mile.

The bill introduced in Congress yesterday by the Hon. George M. Thomas, of Kentucky, providing that Elias Dutton shall no longer be borne upon the rolls of the United States Volunteer army register as a deserter, but that the register aforesaid in future shall certify, evidence and attest that Elias was a puissant soldier, as valiant as Hector of Troy, and is now a scarred veteran with laurels clustering around his brow like unto the chaplets associated with the name of d'Auvergne. There is nothing extraordinary in this bill of the Hon. Thomas. In 10,000 instances the Congress of the United States has metamorphosed deserters into heroes, in order that these same deserters might become pensioners upon better men than themselves. These are the gentry Gen. Bragg referred to when he spoke of "deserters, bounty-jumpers and coffee-coolers." It is a scandal upon valor and an outrage upon patriotism that the real soldier who bore the brunt of the battle, underwent the fatigues of the march and the hardships of the campaign should be compelled to receive these cattle into the association of honorable pensioners—but deserters are also voters. That fact covers with a mantle a thousand sins.—[Times.]

THE HOG BRISTLES TRADE.—Years ago it used to be the custom of our farmers to save all their hog bristles for taking to the stores as a marketable commodity, they usually getting a good price for them. But this has all changed now, like a great many other things of the past. Nobody buys bristles now since there is no longer a market for them, owing to their not being equal in quality to the European bristles. All needed supplies by brush makers are now imported from the old country. They are worth their weight in silver, and are sold that way, the money value being put on one side of the scale and the bristles on the other.—[Westchester Local News.]

The great, if not fatal, weakness of the republican party is that it outwigs the Clay Whigs in its demand for protection, that in dealing with the surplus its policy is one of political demonization instead of industrial relief, and that upon the grave race question in the Southern States it proposes nothing effectual, and practices nothing but sectional exasperation. The unmanly and ribald speech of Mr. Ingalls, which was designed to stimulate the worst party passions, is one of the many signs of the deplorable decadence of the republican party.—[Harper's Weekly.]

Exercise for rapid pronunciation: Two little bootblacks, one white and the other black, were standing at the corner doing nothing, when the white bootblack agreed to black the black bootblack's boots. The black bootblack was, of course, willing to have his boots blacked by his fellow-bootblack and the bootblack who had agreed to black the black bootblack's boots went to work.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—W. A. Arnold has been appointed town marshal, vice Bob Hamilton resigned.

—If the ground hog has come out of his hole, I wonder what he thinks of this weather?

—W. O. Rigney has rented the rooms over Stephen Marrs' store for his undertaker's shop for the present.

—The news of Treasurer Tate's defalcation created a profound sensation in Lancaster, but we have yet to hear a single democrat say it will injure the party.

—Those of our fellow citizens who have failed to get out their garden truck should not let that fact worry them. This weather is not the kind for vegetation to grow luxuriantly.

—The west wind do blow, and now we have snow, so what will the g. hog do, poor thing? He will curl up his tail, in the face of the gale, and lie to his hole again, poor thing!

—H. C. Kauffman went to Cincinnati on Wednesday. Col. John Henderson has been assigned to duty at James Herring's distillery as storekeeper and gauger vice Capt. Salter relieved.

—W. O. Rigney has gone to Cincinnati, where he will buy a $1,000 hearse and a full stock of handsome caskets and coffins, with a view of engaging in the undertaker's business in Lancaster.

—The new distillery just completed by J. W. Miller is pronounced to be the best arranged one in the country. The present capacity will be 18 bushels of grain per day, but this can be increased when desired.

—The ladies of the Presbyterian mite society will give an "Easter egg hunt" at the residence of Mrs. J. P. Sandifer, on April 2d. Each egg will contain a leap-year present of an acceptable nature. The young folks are especially urged to be present, and a rare treat is promised. No admission will be charged, but a basket will be provided to receive contributions of any amount.

THE WOMAN WHO LAUGHS.—For a good, everyday household angel, give me a woman who laughs. Her buseuities may not always be just right, and she may occasionally burn her bread and forget to replace dislocated buttons, but for solid comfort all day and every day she is a very paragon. Home is not a battlefield, nor life one long, unending row. The trick of always seeing the bright side, of shining up the dark one, is a very important faculty—one of the things no woman should be without. We are not all born with the sunshine in our hearts as the Irish pretty phrase it, but we can cultivate a cheerful sense of humor if we only try.—[Rural New Yorker.]

RICHMOND.—Elder S. W. Crutcher went to Belmont, Mo., the first of the year, from Louisville, and to date has baptized more than 40 persons. His family followed last week and are all well. G. W. Deatherage has sold to Wm. McKinney, of Kansas City, his mare, Bertie Sprague, for $2,000. W. J. & J. S. Collins claim to have the largest jack in the world. He is nearly six feet high and weighs 1,200 pounds.—[Climax.]

The greatest elevation which has been attained by man is 37,000 feet—about 7 miles—this height having been reached during a balloon ascent made by Glaisher. At this tremendous distance above the earth's surface physical exertion is found to be almost impossible, owing to the great rarefaction of the atmosphere.

—Daniel Giles shot George Terry thro' the heart at Hopkinsville on account of jealousy.

W. P. WALTON.

When the news was flashed over the wires Tuesday that Treasurer James W. Tate was a defaulter and a fugitive, those who heard it could scarce believe their ears, much less that "Honest Dick Tate," as he was universally called, had done anything wrong, but confirmation almost as strong as Holy Writ left no hope that he would yet come out right, and those who had reposed the highest confidence in him were forced to surrender all preconceived ideas. For 20 years Dick Tate has been honored by the democracy with the office of Treasurer of Kentucky, until it had almost arrived at that point when no one would oppose him for it. The good old democratic doctrine of rotation in office was disregarded in his case and the result has been most disastrous. At the first of each year it has been the custom of the auditor to compare accounts with the treasurer and as usual Gen. Hewitt asked Mr. Tate to present his report. He put him off from time to time alleging that he was behind in his books. The auditor finally became suspicious and last week sent one of his expert accountants to help Mr. Tate out. This gentleman soon found that something was wrong, but Mr. Tate said that when he returned from Louisville he could explain everything satisfactorily. He was to do this last Friday, but he failed to appear and then Gen. Hewitt called in Gov. Buckner and Attorney General Hardin for a thorough examination of the treasurer's accounts. It was soon seen that there was a shortage of $200,000, possibly $300,000 and over Gov. Buckner immediately suspended Tate and placed Gen. Hewitt and Secretary of State Adams in temporary charge of the office. The governor communicated the fact of the defalcation to the Legislature and his action in the premises, and a resolution to offer $5,000 for the arrest and return of Tate was immediately adopted. It is said that Tate has not been a beneficiary of the big steal, but was led blindly into the trouble by advancing small sums, at first to importunate friends and once into it, increasing the amounts and the number of the loans almost indefinitely.

Maudlin sentiment would in a measure relieve him of some of the responsibility of his crime, but it is a waste of sympathy to extend it to a man who has sinned as Tate has done. If ever a man had cause to keep square in the line of rectitude Tate has and his crime is therefore unpardonable and he should not for a moment be considered with even a semblance of forgiveness. By flying as soon as all hope of further concealment had passed to that haven of thieves and defaulters—Canada, he shows he is no better than the common herd of them and it is to be hoped that he will yet be brought back and made to do penance for his terrible crime—a crime against the people and a crime against that party which has honored him for 30 or more years with office, he having been Secretary of State and assistant secretary before his continuous terms as treasurer. Though his defalcation was exposed by a democratic administration and although his securities are fully able to make good the entire shortage, it will greatly injure the party in power, especially with those who do not think for themselves and the blow will be felt for years. The republicans are consequently jubilant and the Bradleys and the what nots are grinning with the utmost satisfaction as they utter their "I told you so."

Impeachment proceedings will be at once instituted against Tate and then the governor by and with the consent of the Senate will appoint a treasurer till the August election. Tate's bondsmen are J. Stoddard Johnston, A. W. Macklin, Thomas J. Megibben, W. J. Chinn, Steve Black, Gen. Scott Brown, G. W. Robb and W. H. Barbee. Their combined fortunes are placed at a million dollars. They already urge that Gen. Hewitt's failure to force Tate to settlements according to law relieves them of responsibility but that every cent stolen will be made good there is hardly a doubt.

His bank account shows that there is now nearly $600,000 to the credit of the State and the defalcation will not in any measure impair the credit of the Commonwealth.

The Supreme Court has just decided that the prohibition law in Iowa which went so far as to not only prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor, wine, beer, etc., in that State, but to prohibit any one from importing it from another State, is unconstitutional. The decision was in a case against a railroad corporation for refusing to haul a cargo of liquor into the State. The court says that a State can regulate the traffic inside of her borders, but it is a violation both of the Constitution and the Interstate Commerce law for her to prohibit such traffic between States or individuals in those States.

It is believed that Gov. Buckner will appoint Judge S. G. Sharp, of Lexington, to succeed Tate as treasurer of Kentucky.

The Iowa republicans have declared for Senator Allison for president.

The death of Robert Gibson, which occurred at his home in Somerset Monday night, is almost in the nature of a calamity to his section. Public spirited, generous and true, he did more than any other one man for Somerset and Pulaski county, and his place cannot be filled. He was a self-made man, who by dint of untiring energy and fine business sagacity, rose from poverty to a very wealthy and honored one. Besides owning a controlling interest in the Somerset National Bank, he was the largest stockholder in the National Bank of Meridian, Miss., in addition to owning much valuable property in Somerset and elsewhere. A better or truer democrat never lived than Bob Gibson and the party loses a wheel-horse in his death, for he not only contributed largely of his means to aid it, but was ever ready to work for its success. In all the walks of life he was a noble example of the honorable man, who drew friends to him naturally, and his death will be sincerely regretted all over the State.

Gov. Buckner continues to veto objectionable acts passed by the legislature and is daily demonstrating the fact that he is one of the most clear-headed men of affairs as well as the most courageous that has ever held the office of governor of Kentucky. He sent in six vetoes in a bunch Monday, five of them being bills for relief and incorporation, which he thinks are against the public good. The sixth was the bill increasing the fees of jailers from 50 to 60 cents for detaining prisoners and as usual he shows some excellent reasons for the faith that is in him. He says that an army ration only costs 20 cents and that men do the most arduous service on it. The cost of feeding a prisoner cannot be over 25 cents and he can see no good reason for permitting a jailer to make more than 100 per cent. The bill would add greatly to the public expense and help prevent the reduction in taxes that should be made and which the legislature has promised.

According to a summary furnished the Courier-Journal, it is not at all probable that the Mills tariff bill will be passed by the present Congress, and not even by the House. There are only 142 democrats straight out for tariff reduction and it takes 163 to pass the bill. There are 168 democrats in the body, but it appears that they will not unite though the life of the party depended upon them. The republicans are always united and that is the secret of their strength.

The committee which met in Lexington Tuesday night decided that the Democratic Convention shall be held in that city on Wednesday, May 16, for the appointment of delegates to the National Convention at St. Louis. Delegates to the State convention will be chosen in the various counties on Saturday, May 5, the basis of representation being one delegate for 200 votes for Gov. Buckner, or a fraction thereof.

Old GRANNY BLAIR thought to make some capital by offering a bill that Confederate soldiers be given the preference in filling offices in certain cases, but he raised a big row instead. Confederate soldiers don't ask anybody any odds and are able to take care of themselves without begging for pensions or asking for office.

The Burlington road announces that it has all the engineers it wants and is running along as if no strike had ever occurred. It is also stated that the engineers are still firm and confident of ultimate victory, but somehow or other the two statements do not consist.

It is stated that the old Yeoman Company got $30,000 of the State's money from Tate and other as insolvent concerns smaller or greater amounts. Tate is also charged with dealing heavily in whisky and blowing a good deal of his trust funds into bucket shops.

The much-abused mother-in-law got in her work in Fleming county, Tuesday by fatally shooting an erring son-in-law. Bully for the old gal! It would be better for the country if a few more of them would let loose on the trifling fellows who marry their daughters.

Nor in the least "scart" are we, Bro. Hull. McCreary can beat republican prohibition the devil and Tom Walker together. We only wished to remind the prohibitionists that the business of kicking against the pricks was a deuced silly one.

Col. FRANK WOLFORD has announced that he is a candidate for Congress in the 11th district. The only objection to the old war-horse is that he wants everybody pensioned, but he is a good man all the same, and can wipe the earth up with Finley.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS.

The House Wednesday passed the bill creating the branch penitentiary at Eddyville a State reformatory, and fixing the salary of the Superintendent at $2,500 a year.

A democratic caucus was held in the State House at Frankfort Wednesday night, at which resolutions were passed looking to an examination of all state officers and institutions, and to a reduction of taxation.

The House has passed a bill which provides that in order that the law requiring a third conviction to carry with it a life sentence, that the offense for which the second conviction is had shall have been committed after the first conviction is had, and that the offense for which the third conviction is had shall have been committed after the second conviction.

Lawyer Davison, seeing the storm of indignation about to break over his head, has offered an amendment to his road law, reducing taxation to 6 cents and equalizing the number of days to be worked. This won't do. Its entire repeal will only suffice. A measure that takes the power of allowing claims from the county court and gives it to magistrates, will not strike a sensible man as the proper kind of legislation.

—Mrs. E. W. Jones and Miss Alice Hardin have received a portion of their new spring millinery.

—A hop given at the College Hall last Friday night by the young men of C. O. was well attended and much enjoyed.

—Mrs. Fannie Edmonson sold out her stock of millinery goods here and left this week for McKinney, where she will trim for some lady in the millinery business there.

—Rev. R. A. Hopper, of Lebanon, is conducting night services at the Christian church this week. It was he who conducted a successful protracted meeting here last fall. He is a cultured and forcible speaker and all who can possibly go to hear him ought to do so.

—Miss Nannie Bingham, of Cedar Creek, is visiting the Misses Hutchinson. Mrs. Polly Gresham has returned from Middleburg. Miss Maggie Davis is the guest of Miss Alice Ward this week. Mr. Feland Hiatt, from Missouri, spent several days of last week with the home folks here. Mr. George Harris has gone to London and secured a position there.

It is either a strict license law or prohibition. Either the one or the other. The prohibition sentiment is strong and it is growing. He is a foolish man who either denies or closes his eyes to the fact. A license bill, general in its terms, strict in its provisions, and enforced by the authorities, is the one thing needed to break the force of the prohibition strength. It is the sale to minors, the sale to drunkards, and the sale to persons of known habits of intoxication which feeds the prohibition feeling. Take away the cause, and a proper license law will do it, and the effect must necessarily go. [Covington Commonwealth.]

Charles Voorhees, son of Senator Voorhees, is the Congressional delegate from Washington territory. Although he has no vote in the House he can introduce all the bills he chooses. He has presented one measure at least which shows that he has statesman's blood in his veins. It is a bill to regulate spelling by law, the amended orthography to be taught in all government schools. The measure makes war on the silent "e," as in "live," "bronze," etc., and advocates the adoption of "ake" for "ache," "anker" for "anchor," and other abbreviated forms for certain words. [New York World.]

Rev. William P. Evans, of Baltimore, does not object to pretty and stylish dressing. In a sermon the other day he said "dress was primarily intended to serve the purpose of modesty, and secondarily to keep people warm, but the fact that nature covers the rose with moss and the tree with foliage shows that it is no sin to dress prettily."

In the days of the Marquise de Tofana arsenic was considered a most wonderful agent for secret poisoning. In these days of advanced chemistry it is considered the very worst. However administered it may be found and detected in the body, even years after burial, when all that is corruptible has corrupted. It is a mineral and stays there.

It is related of Gen. Grant that his conversation was remarkable for its purity. On one occasion a certain general entered his tent and said: "I have a good story to tell; are there any ladies about?" Grant replied at once: "No, but there gentlemen about." It is said the story was not told.

Lives of great men all remind us that if we cannot do more, we can tell our neighbors how Ganter's chicken cholera cure restored our chickens, that were sick enough to die, to perfect health and that if it fails your money will be refunded by McRoberts & Stagg.

"East Lynne" in humble life has just been enacted in Cherokee county, Ga., with all the leading characters complete. The "Sir Archibald" of the story is Mr. William Dimsdale, who met a pretty "Isabel Vane" in the person of Miss Ellen Graft. The couple were married and two children came to them. Then "Sir Francis Levison" appeared in the person of Andrew Harper, who led the wife from her allegiance, and they eloped. Word came back from North Carolina that, abandoned by her paramour, Mrs. Dimsdale sickened and died. Mr. Dimsdale's heart turned to a charming "Barbara Hare," in the neighborhood, named Miss Sarah Holcomb, whom he married six weeks ago. Last Friday night as Dimsdale and his new wife sat at home, with the two children sitting between them, the door suddenly opened and there stood the "Madam Vane" of the story, who was not dead, but who, returning, crept up to the window to get one glance at her children. When she saw them, overcome with emotion, she could not resist the temptation to enter. The scene was dramatic indeed. Now Mr. Dimsdale is at a loss how to dispose temporarily, at least, of one of his wives.

There are more schemes in the world than a man could keep cases on with a patent adding machine. One of the latest is still another improvement on the "put-in-a-nickel-and-see-it-work" apparatus, and this one is to operate on the principle of "put in two nickels and take out your photograph." If a man tries to beat the machine by putting in only one nickel, a placard reading "Rats!" or "Come Off!" is flaunted before his eyes, and if he still wants his photograph he must put in two more nickels or lose the one already deposited. The inventor thinks this device will sweep the country and make his fortune and perhaps it will.

Daniel Lambert was probably the fattest person that ever lived. He was born at Leicester in 1770 and died in 1806. He measured 9 feet 4 inches around the waist, and the calf of his leg was 37 inches in circumference. His weight was 739 pounds. A young man—Eliezer Edwards—records that he was himself one of 11 young men who, in 1841, stood within a buttoned waistcoat that had once belonged to Lambert.

"George," asked the teacher of a Sunday-school class, "whom, above all others, shall you wish to see when you get to heaven?" With a face brightening up with anticipation, the little fellow shouted, "Gerlah!" [Boston Christian Register.]

HARKAWAY!

Private trial at 3 years of age on half mile track to wagon at 2:30.
Dark bay, 15½ hands high. The finest horse, the best breeder and the highest bred, Kentucky offered to the public at so low a price and on terms so liberal.

$30 to Insure a Living Colt.

Sired by WILKIN'S MICAWBER, sire of Black Prince 2:25½, Kingsley 2:20½, and the dam of Black Jack, 2:20.
Dan Allen, 2:20½, dam of Wilton, 2:10½ and Albert France, 2:10½, by RYSDYK'S HAMBLETONIAN, grand dam Lady Griswold. Trial to wagon at 2½ by Flying Morgan, the sire of Wilkins Micawber was sired by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam Lady Brown, dam of Pickwick, Nigger Lance, son of Lance, son of American Eclipse.
Wilkins Micawber died young and left but few colts, but from his great speed, rich breeding and magnificent form, he gave abundant promise of a most brilliant career, both on the track and in the stud. Major Thomas Morton, of New York, wrote us that he refused for Wilkins Micawber just a short time before his death an offer of $50,000, and the great driver, Carl Barr, says that he has always considered that in the death of Wilkins Micawber breeders sustained the loss of one of the very greatest of all the great sons of old Hambletonian.

Rysdyk's Hambletonian, who sired both sire and dam of HARKAWAY, has sired 40 2:30 performers and has sired 100 sons who have sired over 200 2:30 performers and has sired the dams of 50 performers with records of 2:30 and better, proving him the greatest trotting horse progenitor that has yet appeared, and ALLIE, the dam of HARKAWAY, is one of his two greatest daughters. The only horse approaching Rysdyk's Hambletonian as a sire of producing dams is American Star, the sire of Lady Brown, the dam of Wilkins Micawber. We know the breeding of HARKAWAY will bear the closest analysis and we have every confidence that he will produce speed and drive believe those patronizing him will realize as much profit from his produce as from the produce of any horse in the land, and his fillets should make brood mares worthy the embraces of the bluest blood. Breeders are invited to call and examine for themselves the horse and his produce. Attention is called to the following extract:

OLNEY, ILL., MAR. 10, 1887.
HARKAWAY never made what could be called a season in his life until you bought him. Our people were absolutely dead to the merits of the trotter. He served two years when three years old and got two colts, both owned here, and you could not buy either for $500. * * * You can not buy a Harkaway youngster in or around Olney for less than $500 to $600, out of common mares. He served in his whole life 22 mares and got 10 foals. For several years he ran wild in pasture, and covered mares, during the time I was trying to see whether I would go under or stay on top of the sod.

Dr. J. R. Graves, Editor The Reporter, Memphis, Tenn., says: "I received a package of your Liver Medicine, and have used half of it. It works like a charm. I want no better Liver Regulator and certainly no more of Zeilin's mixture."
